-Driving Global Growth with Distributed IVD Tests. Currently, the Prosigna Breast Cancer Assay is available globally as an IVD test that runs on the nCounter Analysis System platform. If we are not able to adapt our other current or future tests to be performed on IVD platforms or if our tests fail to be competitive against competing products in international markets, our prospects for growth could suffer. In addition, to the extent international markets have existing practices and standards of care that are different than those in the United States, we may face challenges with the adoption of our tests in international markets.
